VOLUME XV

COLUMBIA, ADAIR COUNTY, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY NOV. 8, 1911.

NUMBER 1

Volume Fifteen.

Anna, Texas.

"With this issue the News enters upon its fifteenth year. The year just passed was a prosperous one, and to all those who stood by the publication, we tender our grateful thanks. We are preparing to build an additional room to the office, as our present apartments cannot accommodate all our machinery, and there will be several new pieces to be installed. A two revolution job press is one thing the office needs, and we are looking forward with a view to buying one some time during the coming year. We want to be in position to print any size bill demanded. To make the purchase it will require an outlay of money, hence we would be glad if all those who know themselves indebted to the office would send in remittances. During the year 1912, we will do every thing in our power to improve the appearance of the paper, and will publish all the news that can be gathered, looking to the advancement of Columbia and the county of Adair and our sister counties.

A gentleman who lives in Anna, Texas, and who is interested in this part of Kentucky, publishes a letter in The News this week, upon the subject of railroad building. We do not believe that there is a doubt but Columbia and Adair county could secure a road if the business men and thrifty farmers would get down to their knitting.

Mr. Robt. G. Dohoney, who was born and reared near Columbia, a son of Mr. J. P. Dohoney, Sr., was recently married, at Eldia, New Mexico, to Miss Grace Cain, a highly respected young lady and quite popular where she resides. The groom is a fine young man and has many friends in his native county, all of whom wish him success and happiness.

Mr. Allen Walker, proprietor of the Columbia Hotel, invited several friends to dine with him last Sunday. It was a most delightful dinner, elegantly prepared, and very much enjoyed.

So far as we have heard, the election passed off very quietly in Adair county. A large vote was polled.

Editor News:

In "The News" of two weeks ago, I saw an article relative to a railroad from Campbellsville or Greensburg to Columbia. Now as I am an old "Russellite," I am greatly interested in the upbuilding of that and adjoining counties.

Southern Kentucky has built enough railroads in the past ten years on paper to cover the State, and I think it is time to stop now and go to building on the ground. Railroad building on paper is good enough as far as it goes, that is it is good if you keep talking about it until some one is interested enough to build it. Texas is building miles and miles of railroad every year, both steam and electric, and I know that whatever Texas can do Kentucky can do also. This part of Texas is building electric lines right along, and there are not near the inducements here for railroad building, that there is there.

The electric line here from Sherman to Dallas is built alongside the H. & T. C. Railroad, and is doing a big business, and I shall venture to say that if this road could be picked up and placed in Kentucky, in such a way as to connect the cities of Somerset, Columbia, Greensburg or Campbellsville, its business would be increased 100 per cent., if not more. It paid to build it beside a steam road that has been running for years, and it will in Kentucky also. It will not cost but very little more to build it, either. The main thing is to keep talking about it to the citizens of the counties and towns until they are interested.

Do not under any circumstances, let it stop at Columbia. Send it on through Russell, via Russell Springs to Somerset. Nothing would please me any better than to know that an electric line was being built through my home county. Keep pushing the good work, do not let it die, for it has died too many times already. A few years ago The Adair County News could almost hear the din of the electric cars on the rails, but that was the last of it. Can this be a failure also?

Debating Society.

It has been many years since there was a debating society in Columbia and we believe if there was an organization now, it would prove of great interest. There are a number of fine speakers in town, and to discuss live questions, would be very improving. The nights are long and a few hours could be profitably put in one evening in the week, say Saturday night. If this suggestion meets the approbation of any one who would take part, let him make the start to perfect an organization.

Notice.

I hereby notify all persons that subscribed to the Boys Corn Contest Premium Fund to please come in and pay their subscription to N. H. Moss County Judge, of Adair Co by the 15th day of Nov. 1911. as the contest comes off the 18th.

Democratic State Ticket Sweeps the State

McCreary and the Entire Ticket Elected by a Tremendous Majority

There is Much Rejoicing Among Democrats and the Republicans are Taking their Defeat Philosophically, Saying, "I Told You So?"

STATE WILL NOW GET DOWN TO BUSINESS.

The splendid old time victory electing one of the cleanest and most competent set of Democratic State officials the party has ever had is sufficient to make every loyal supporter of the party feel glad. The majority, so decisive, is not only a tribute to the party platform but a powerful endorsement and positive commission from the people for a change in the administration of this State's political interests. It is likewise a rebuke that the opposite party cannot fail to understand.

The great question now confronting the most interested is, what caused it? In our judgment the failure of the Willson administration to meet popular demands was one; the union of Democrats the most powerful one, for at no time have Republicans claimed this State except as a gift through disaffection in our party. There seems to have been strictly a test of strength between the two parties in one of the cleanest campaigns ever made in the State, and the result is a positive proof that this state is Democratic. Besides the foregoing there is a current town

Democratic principles and policies throughout the entire country, and this was a most helpful factor in yesterday's contest. The high cost of living, failure to reduce, the tariff and the loss of confidence in Republicans Congressmen have driven thousands to accept Democratic platforms. 'In this State that very feature added much strength. Not outspoken, not parading their change of judgment, and to escape the censure of their party associates, they said nothing but voted. President Taft has practically admitted that the drift of public confidence is toward the Democrats, and that 1912 will not be a bright year for Republicans. It is to our notion.

The State 33,000 Democratic and both branches of the Legislature overwhelmingly Democratic, should make the rooster crow.

Out of 133 representatives the Democrats will have 111. Bud Bales, Democrat, was elected as State Senator in the counties of Green, Hart and Letcher. Mr. Bertram, Democratic, was elected as Representative from Clinton and Mike

Scott, Dem., was elected Senator from Metcalfe, Barren and Monroe. The Republican Municipal ticket—wet ticket, was elected in Bowling Green but the county gave a Democratic Majority. Dr. R. A. Sanders, Dem., was elected to the State Senate from Taylor, Marion and Washington by a large majority. The Tenth District, home of Hon. J. W. Langley, Republican Chairman, went—went Democratic by two thousand. The sun shines bright.

Columbia Hotel Changes Hands.

Mr. J. P. Jasper, who has successfully conducted the Columbia Hotel for the past two years, gave it up last week, Mr. Allen Walker becoming the proprietor, and who will give it his personal attention. He is well acquainted with all the commercial men, and it is predicted that he will make an excellent hotel man. He has been used to good eating all his life, and he proposes to furnish his guests with the best the market affords, hence the traveling public who stop at his hotel, may expect the best of care and the closest attention.

Mr. Jasper has not yet decided where he will locate, but he expects to continue in the hotel business in some Kentucky town, several propositions being open to him. The people of Columbia will regret the departure of Mr. Jasper and his excellent wife and daughter, and take pleasure in commending them to the good people wherever they may locate.

Mrs. J. R. Hindman Entertains.

Last Tuesday evening a party of young people who had been invited to take supper with Governor and Mrs. Hindman, met at the home of Mrs. Jo Rosenfield, where they masked, then went over to the Hindman residence, where they were cordially received, a great deal of merriment being indulged in before the masks were removed. At 9 o'clock delightful refreshments were served, and the remainder of the evening was spent in listening to music, and engaging in popular games. It was a delightful occasion, long to be remembered. The following were present:

Misses Alice Walker, Myrtle Myers, Emma Myers, Glasgow, Ky., Lura Smith, Ora Moss, Vic Hughes, Kate Hogard, Edna Lewis, Madge Rosenfield. Messrs. Alec Chewing, Ray Montgomery, Oscar McBeath, Herschel Baker, Ewing Stults, Ray Flowers, Dr. R. Y. Hindman.

A Unique Rural Wedding.

A very pretty home wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stotts, at their beautiful country home seven miles west of Sarcosie, Mo., 10 a. m., last Sunday, when their daughter, Miss Inis, became the bride of Louis M. King. Rev. C. D. Yarbrough of Avilla, performed the ceremony beneath the maple trees on the lawn.

The bridal pair accompanied by the Misses Lyda May Dudman and Fern Kingston as bridesmaid and Royce and Dick Turk, cousins of the bride, as groomsmen, marched from the house to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Carrie Johnson, former student of the bride.

The ceremony was witnessed by about forty guests, the most intimate friends and relatives of the bridal pair. Following the ceremony a sumptuous dinner was served, after which the bride and groom hurried away to avoid their friend's knowledge of their departure. They went to Kansas City to attend the Carnival, after which, they will make their home in Carthage, Mo.

The bride is an accomplished musician, and will be very much missed by a host of friends. The groom is a prosperous young man, dealer in implements at Reeds, Mo.

They were the recipients of many useful and beautiful presents, consisting of cut glass, silver, china and linen. The well wishes of their many friends followed them.

By One Present.

The bride's father, Mr. Robert Stotts, is a native of Adair county, and is a brother of Messrs. Creed and Ed Stotts, who live a few miles from Columbia.

An Invitation.

"All ye who labor come to me,"
Said the Lamb of Calvary.
"If of my Father you are blessed
I will surely give you rest.
Just take my yoke and learn of me.
And from all sin I'll make you free."
(CHORUS.)

Come poor sinner, come to-day,
You no longer should delay;
Jesus died on Calvary's tree
From all sin to make you free.
Then come to him now, while you may
And he will wash your sins away.

The spirit and the bride say; come,
Then poor sinner cease to roam.
Come freely drink, life's stream is free,
Jesus now is bidding thee.

He shed His blood on Calvary's cross
To cleanse poor sinners from all dross

Now is the time, Oh come to-day,
Seek the Lord now, while you may,
Believe, repent, be born again,

He will cleanse you from your sin;
Then come, poor sinner, come to-day
And have your sins all washed away.

New Paper.

The Hart County Herald is the name of a new weekly paper just started at Horse Cave. It is edited by Mr. Harry H. Hansbrough, and is Democratic in politics. The first issue, a copy of which is now on our table, looks good, showing that the editor is not a tyro in the newspaper business. The editorial matter is well written and the news columns are chuck full of interesting items. We have placed the Herald on our exchange list, trusting that it may have a successful career—liberally patronized by the farmers and business men of Hart county.

SALT FOR SALE.

I have an honest 7 bushel barrel salt, which cost only 15 cents more than the 64-bushel barrel which you buy elsewhere. 33-3t Sam Lewis.

Business is evidently looking up. There were more people, more wagons and all kinds of vehicles on the public square last week, than any other week in the past three months.

Mr. H. B. Gentry has removed to the residence recently purchased of Mr. W. Gentry.

ADAIR BOYS CORN CONTEST.

Saturday, November 18, is the Day for the Judges to Decide.

Those in charge of the contest have decided on the following plans, and therefore request every contestant to promptly comply. It is as follows:

Two men have been selected in each voting precinct, to measure the ground and weigh the corn, and send measurement of ground and weight of corn to Judge Moss, at the earliest day possible. If any contestant withdraws from the quantity contest on the half acre, it will not be necessary for him to have either ground or corn measured. A withdrawal from this does not prevent him from entering the contest in the exhibit on the 18th, and every boy who got seed furnished by Judge Moss is expected here with samples of corn on that day. Each boy is to show ten ears of corn. Should the committee fail to collect the full amount of premiums, then each winner in the contest will bear his proportional loss. The corn to be exhibited in the court-house, and to remain on exhibition in Judge Moss' office, with name and address of producers.

In selecting the men to determine the amount of land and weight of corn, the committee has selected good men, and while the performance of this work will require some time without money compensation, yet it is trusted and believed that every man will be faithful and prompt to every call in his district. The premium money has been subscribed by the two banks and business men in this town, with the exception of a few dollars from good farmers. Remember, if in the contest, gather your corn and have land measured and corn weighed by the men, or by one of them in your precinct. Below we give their names:

Gradyville; C. O. Moss, J. A. Diddle, Elroy; Jim Simpson, Geo. Akin. Keltner; W. S. Pickett, W. H. Kemp.

An Every-Day Creed.

Formerly a machinist and now a minister of the gospel, the Rev. Charles Steize has written an "every day creed" which is worth knowing and believing in.

"I Believe in My Job—it may not be a very important job, but it is mine. Furthermore, it is God's job for me, if I am honestly trying to do his will. He has a purpose in my life with reference to his plan for the world's progress. No other fellow can take my place. It isn't a big place, to be sure, but for years I have been molded in a peculiar niche in the world's work. I could take no other man's place.

He has the same claim as a specialist that I make for myself.

Yes, I believe in my job. May I be kept true to the task which lies before me—true to myself and to God, who entrusted me with it.

"I Believe in my Fellow Man he may not always agree with me. I'd feel sorry for him if he did, because I myself do not believe some of the things that were absolutely sure in my mind dozen years ago. May he ever lose faith in himself because if he does he may lose in me, and that would hurt more than the former, and I'd hurt him more than it hurt me.

"I Believe in My Country—I in it because it is made of fellow men—and my own go back on either be true to my creed, the best country in the world, partly because I am not the kind of man that I should be.

"I Believe in my home—It isn't rich home. It wouldn't satisfy some folks, but it contains jewels which cannot be purchased in the markets of the world. When I enter its secret chambers and shut out the world with its care, I am a lord. Its motto is service, its reward is love. There is no other place in all the world which fills its place and heaven can be only a larger home with a Father who is all-wise, patient and tender.

"I believe in To-day—it is all that I possess. The past is of value only as it can make the life of to-day fuller and freer. There is no assurance of to-morrow. I must make good to-day."

In Deeper.

Thank for the blindness of the president! A blindness which, automatically and conclusively, is opening the eyes even of his own party following to the fact of an absolute failure of a most amiable gentleman and eminent jurist in an executive position. Insisting Beverly, on starting out to round up the faithful, President Taft insisted to the republicans of Massachusetts that it was their duty, pitch their state caucuss on national lines, in view of impotence of the presidential election of the next year—and he started on his tour of destruction.

Now he has determined to do it some more. It is announced from Ogden Utah, that the presidential determination is to add some 3,000 more miles to his trip—with the 3,000 but adding to the other thousand in fixing the minds of the good people of the country on the necessity of electing all Democratic governors year and additional Democratic congressing next year. That settled it! Also, it is the duty of charity to suggest that the determination of judge O. Rear to avoid detentional politics is due to his keen appreciation of the fact that he is doomed to political slaughter equally with the president, and possibly a little more so and certainly a year in advance.—Owensboro Messenger

It Takes Nerve.

Lexington.—One of the boldest the boldest train robberies ever perpetrated in this section of the country occurred near this city when a freight train on the Louisville & Nashville railroad was robbed under the noses of two special detectives.

The train was proceeding from Louisville to Lexington. When near a small station between this city and Frankfort, several men appeared from the side of the road and boarded it. They entered a car containing merchandise and began throwing off boxes. These boxes were picked up by other men who followed the train with a horse and wagon.

Finally the train men gave the alarm and the detectives who were stationed in a caboose, rushed out. They were too late however, as the robbers had leaped from the car, and made off in the darkness. There is no clue to the identity of the bandits.

Starts Much Trouble.

If all people knew that neglect of constipation would result in severe indigestion, yellow jaundice or virulent liver trouble, they would soon take Dr. King's New Life Pills, and end it. It is the only safe way. Best for biliousness, headache, dyspepsia, chills and debility. 25c at Paul Drug Co.

Bread Without Flour.

In France bread has been made without flour in a machine that transforms the wheat directly into dough. This machine shows a large screw turning loosely in a case on the inner surface of which is a screw thread running in an opposite direction. Between the main threads on the groove becomes progressively smaller from one end to the other, so that it will hold the entire wheat grain as it enters the machine, at the same time accommodating only the pulverized wheat at the exit.

The wheat is prepared by a thorough washing, after which operation about a pint of tepid water to a pound of grain is added, the whole mixture being allowed to stand some six hours. Then the grains of wheat have swollen to twice their ordinary size. The mixture is then treated with yeast and salt, and is poured into the machine. It falls between the threads of the moving screw and of the fixed contrary screw, which simultaneously crush the envelope and body of the grain, making of them a homogenous mixture that forms a smooth paste.

Bread made by this process contains a succession of holes whose size increases as they approach the crust, which is thin. The odor given off is said to be most agreeable.

A Pretty Apron.

A bewitching little apron that can be made in half an hour consists of two bandana handkerchiefs. Cut a corner from one handkerchief, leaving a bias space of 5 inches for the waist line. This brings a point at the bottom and one at each side. Hem or pink the cut portion. Binding wears better. Cut out of the center of the other handkerchief a hole, round or oblong, and big enough to slip over the head easily. Hem or face the opening. Lap one corner over the skirt portion far enough to cover the waist-band. Fasten securely at the edges. Attach ribbon ties to match some color in the handkerchief, and the apron is finished with a most becoming yoke waist, pointed at bottom and on the shoulders and in the back. If the yoke slips forward, the point in the back can be pinned to the bow of the ties. The style, however, is warranted to make the stoutest figure look trim and shapely.

Hogwallow Doings.

The ground on Washington Hock's farm is so poor and thin he takes a deep cold every winter.

Frisby Hancock is engaged this week in making needed repairs on several stumps on his farm.

Atlas Peck has been eluding the mosquitoes for the past few nights by sleeping with a meal sifter over his face.

Sidney Hocks has decided that life is not worth living if a fellow can't be furnished with a mule to ride every Sunday.

There is talk of building an addition on the back part of the Hog Ford church to accommodate the large crowd that sits in that end.

Columbus Allsop got hold of a copy of the Tickville Tidings this week, and says some of the things in it are printed so dim that he could not read it above a whisper.

Isaac Hellwanger went over to Frisby Hancock's house the other night and got a lot of fleas on him, and is expecting to attract by them now at any time.

Cricket Hicks has returned to Hogwallow after having worked for a few days at a sorghum mill near Rye Straw. Life must be awfully sweet around such a job.

The Excelsior Fiddling Band made a bold attempt to serenade Jefferson Potlocks the other night, but he eluded them by hearing of their approach in advance and hiding in the corn crib. There is a dangerous mud drape in the road just after you pass the Dog Hill church and to prevent anybody from running into it a committee has dug a couple of ditches across the road at that point.

Slim Pickens has purchased himself a pair of overalls and one heavy glove to wear when she takes his job at Tickville which consists of ringing the bell at the Methodist church every third Sunday.

Little Fidely Flinders is falling into the ways of his father right along now. The other day he found an empty pint bottle, and after looking all about to see that no one was in sight, he hid it behind a stump. Luke Mathews while seated on the fence near his home yesterday fell to the ground and received injuries on the head and body. The fall came as a great surprise to him, he being asleep at the time of its occurrence.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

A Helping Hand.

After the stout woman had left the car a young man exclaimed excitedly, "She has left her bundle," and then he added resolutely, "I will take it to her." Seizing the package, the sterling youth leaped from the car in the middle of the block.

"Hey, lady!" he shouted, rushing back to her with the bundle in his outstretched hands. "You left this, madam."

"That's mine," she answered. "It belongs to the big colored man that was asleep in the corner."

The car was three blocks away and going farther.

"What in the world shall I do?" said the sterling young man.

"If I were in your place," the stout woman replied, "I would go to the police, to the police and telephone for a smart lawyer."—Newark News.

Hoping For the Best.

"Now that we are married," said the pretty chorus girl, "what do you propose to do?"

"Why," replied the son of the millionaire, "I think we had better keep it secret until I can get a good chance to break the news to the governor when he is in a pleasant mood."

"But how long is it likely to be before he gets into that kind of a mood?"

"It's hard to tell. The stock market is bad, but let us hope for the best. He may win a dollar or two at poker some night before the week is ended."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Not to Be Bessed.

"But, madam," says the surgeon after the woman has recovered consciousness in the hospital, "why didn't you stop when the crossing policeman held up his hand? Then you wouldn't have been struck by the automobile."

TIMELY HINTS FOR FARMERS

Shelter For Sheep.

Warm barns for fattening sheep are not desirable, according to the results of investigations carried on at the Missouri experiment station. Sheep are naturally well protected, and the effect of dry cold is rather a tonic than otherwise. It certainly is not true that fattening sheep require more feed per pound gain in cold weather than in warm weather.

Dean Mumford of the College of Agriculture states that it seems undoubtedly true that sheep do not suffer from dry cold weather, and if they can be kept dry they can endure almost any amount of cold without damage to the animal districts, therefore, where rain and snow fall frequently during the winter, it will be profitable to supply them with a dry shelter, though it need not be warm.

For the Hog Raiser.

If pigs farrowed early in March do not reach 275 pounds by the first week in November there is something wrong about the feeding.

The Oregon experiment station shows that one acre of good clover for growing hogs represents a value of $44.

Too much corn for the brood sow means small litters.

Too many farmers kill their good brood sows because of the temptation to sell for the high prices. This is a mistake.

While there is considerable investment in the brood sows, still it pays better to keep the good ones because they will produce more uniform pigs, more of them and will raise them better.

About Egg Production.

Poultry experts claim that the ordinary hen averages only eighty eggs per year, whereas she ought to lay at least 150. That is, she ought to lay twice as many eggs as she does now. The aim of the fancy poultry man has always been to increase egg production, and he is succeeding to a great extent, for the 200 egg a year hen is now no longer a rarity.

Horse and Driver.

"Almost every wrong act of the horse is caused by fear, excitement or mismanagement," said a great horseman. This is true today, and if the horse does a wrong thing look to his driver for the cause.

A DUST BATH FOR HENS IN WINTER.

Dry Earth and Sand Form an Excellent Mixture.

Before the ground freezes we take a good sized box and fill it with river sand for the chickens, writes a correspondent of the Breeder's Gazette. This should be absolutely dry, so it will not freeze during the winter, and should contain as many clear grit particles as possible. While the dust is plentiful along the roadway we secure another box of still larger dimensions than the first one and fill it with this dust, storing both boxes away where their contents will not get damp and freeze later on and where they will not be wasted until needed.

When winter sets in and the hens' outdoor bath in the dust is no more we take several gallons of sand and dirt from these boxes, mix a small quantity of wood ashes with them and place them in a box made expressly for that purpose in one corner of the scratching shed. Here the hens can scratch and wallow around to their hearts' content, enjoying as good a dust bath in the dead of winter as they did in summer. Whenever we notice that the lice are bothering the flock some reliable insect powder is bought and sifted around in the dust box. The hens thus dust themselves with it and keep the flock free from these pests at a time when dipping would be out of the question under ordinary circumstances on the average farm. A new supply of the dust, sand and ashes is supplied as needed, and the box is kept clean at all times.

Land Fertility.

Profits to be derived from a farm may not be calculated by the number of acres it contains. The quality of the land is more important than the acres it covers. Don't be dissatisfied with a poor farm simply because it is a poor one. Scarcely any farm is so good as not to be capable of improvement. Ideal farms are scarce, and hopping about from one to another offers no opportunity of bringing a farm up to a high standard of perfection. The man who impoverishes a farm by constant tilling without generous tilling injures his own pocket. Farms are like banks—the more you put into them the larger the return of interest.—American Cultivator.

Gait of the Draft Horse.

A good horseman never trots a draft horse, even when he has no load. That is not what they are for. Some degree of speed is desirable, however, even in a drafter, and the fast walk is not only the proper thing, but the only speed to which a heavy draft horse should be pushed.

Farm and Garden

NEW FACTS; OLD MANURES.

Values of the Various Sorts of Fertilizer Set Forth Briefly.

Horse manure from city stables usually contains 70 to 75 per cent of water in the form in which such manure reaches the farmer. The solid portion of such manure contains of nitrogen from 0.5 to 0.8 per cent, phosphoric acid 0.3 to 0.5 per cent, potash 0.5 to 0.7 per cent, lime 0.5 to 0.8 per cent, with traces of magnesia. The drier the manure the larger the quantity of actual plant food elements in the ton. Computing the above named quantities of nitrogen therein as worth 20 cents per pound, phosphoric acid and potash each 4 cents a pound, the valuation of horse manure of the above range of composition works out from $2.64 to $4.16 per ton.

Sheep manure from stockyards and slaughter houses is sometimes sold in the market either under its own name or as so called "natural guano." Analysis of three such samples sold in Connecticut showed them to contain about as much nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash as could be bought in the form of fertilizer chemicals for $11 or $12. The sheep manure sold at from $25 to $35 a ton. But, as the station report says, it must also be remembered that 60 per cent of sheep manure consists of fine vegetable matter, which forms humus in the soil and has distinct value in feeding the soil bacteria and in regulating the water content of the soil.

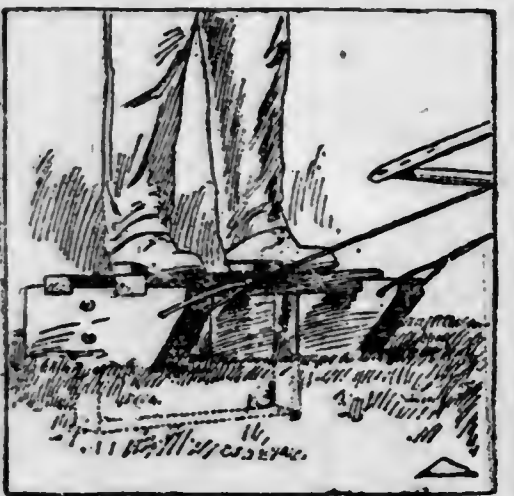

A curious fertilizing material comes in small quantities from silk mills. It is called "cocoon dust" and consists of the dead bodies of silkworms. The Connecticut station found it to be extraordinarily rich in nitrogen, containing nearly 10 per cent of this substance; also small quantities of phosphoric acid and potash.

Sewage waste may be profitable as a fertilizer. The sludge which accumulates on the sand beds used for the purification of sewage at Rockville was found by the Connecticut station to contain of water 68 per cent, of nitrogen 1.34 per cent, with traces of phosphoric acid and potash. This material has almost three times as much nitrogen as stable manure, but it is probably much less available to crops because the more soluble and valuable part of the nitrogen has been removed by water and microbe action. Nevertheless if it can be got for the hauling it might pay for a short haul to plow under.—American Agriculturist.

DON'T CUT SOD WITH SPADE.

The construction of the sod cutter is clearly shown in the sketch. It may be well to add, says Farm Progress, that the knife blade dips downward about three-eighths of an inch in its width of two and one-half inches. The knife can be adjusted to cut the sod at the proper thickness.

Two men and a boy, with a team, recently cut enough sod to load a flat wagon holding one and one-quarter cubic yards, rolled the sod and loaded the wagon in a trifle more than an hour. The cutter is easily and cheaply made and is a great improvement over the spade.

Puckerless Persimmons.

Yes, it has been done. Do not laugh, you who have been handed persimmons and have bitten to the delight of uproarious spectators.

Our department of agriculture has earned additional fame by taking the pucker out.

We owe the discovery to the Japanese. For five years an expert has been at work for the government devising means to remove the pucker from the persimmon. Like all things, it is simple when you know how. The fruit is put into tanks into which carbon dioxide has been forced and left there three days. Taken out it is sweeter than a Bartlett pear and will keep three times as long.

What part will you take in the campaign for better farming? Much will be required at your hands. Have you determined to do your part?

NEW TALES THAT ARE TOLD

Penmanship in Congress.

"I'll bet you a dinner for ten people," said Representative Frank Clark of Florida one day last spring, according to the Popular Magazine, "that the worst penman in congress is Sparkman of my state."

"I'll take that bet," replied Hardwick of Georgia. "The man who writes the worst hand in the world is Adamson of my delegation."

Sparkman is chairman of the committee on rivers and harbor, and Adamson is the head of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce. The two congressmen who had made the bet selected a committee to pass on the handwriting in question and then secured letters written by Sparkman and Adamson in their own penmanship. Those letters were something horrible to see, and the judges decided that the writing of both was so bad that the writers, not the men who had made the bet, must pay for the dinner.

"IN A FEW DAYS HE RETURNED MY LETTER."

While the banquet was in progress Adamson told this story:

"Last winter a constituent of mine wrote to me and asked for a specimen of my handwriting, explaining that he had heard it was the worst in the world and that he was making a study of bad penmanship. I complied with the request. In a few days he returned my letter to me, with this note:

"Fine! Am enthusiastic. Don't know such handwriting was possible. Please send me a typewritten copy of the enclosed. I need a key to it."

A HARD KNOCK FOR UNDERWOOD.

Congressman Hears From a Farmer Constituent.

Representative Underwood, chairman of the ways and means committee in congress, represents what is known as a "manufacturing district," because it contains all the factories and smelters in and about Birmingham, Ala. But he also has among his constituents a lot of farmers, of which fact he is now painfully aware.

He drove out to a settlement in Bibb county one afternoon to persuade the farmers they ought to vote for him. As he stepped up to the porch of a little store an old man rushed up to him with the request:

"Please sign this paper. It's a petition to Congressman Underwood to have a young lady postmistress here."

"I'd be glad to sign it," said Underwood politely, "but as I'm not a resident of this community my name wouldn't help you."

"Oh, yes, it would," the old farmer assured him. "We're getting everybody to sign it, strangers and all. Go ahead and put your name down. That fool congressman will never know the difference!"—New York Tribune.

Pigs and Art.

"Which would you rather have," asked Rose Stahl, "a pig or a picture?" As every one was too much surprised to answer, she went on: "An artist friend whose pictures are worth many thousands per was out on a sketching trip, and he stopped to make a study of a barn. The farmer happened to appear and said he'd like to have the sketch."

"Ef 'tain't too dear," he added cautiously.

"Oh!" said the artist, who makes $12,000 a year. "I won't charge you anything for the sketch, but—"

His eyes lighted on the pigpen. "But I'll tell you what," he said festively. "You can give me one of those nice, little pink, suckling pigs there."

"Why, man," said the farmer, with a frown, "do you know what that pig is worth? They're worth $1 apiece!"—Young's Magazine.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

Some Kentucky School Superintendents Make but $1 a Day.

EVEN PAY OWN POSTAGE.

But With These Pitiful Salaries They Must Put Up Bonds as High as $30,000—Average Territory Is a Hundred Square Miles.

Does the blame for school conditions lie at the door of the county superintendents or the people at large?

Many county superintendents receive salaries of $400 a year, and none of them receives more than $1,500. When a man has a salary of $400 he is of necessity forced to do something else or starve to death.

No stream can rise higher than its source. No underpaid man can put energy and thought into his work. In one of the fertile and prosperous counties of Kentucky not many miles from Cincinnati, O., I had an interview with a county superintendent whom I knew to be a "live wire" educationally. My first question was:

"How responsible does the public consider your position?"

"Do you mean as measured by my salary or by the bond I am asked to give?"

"Your bond."

"Well, I have to give a bond of $30,000. You see, I have $24,000 to pass through my hands annually to finance the forty-six schools that are scattered over the county. Besides, the schoolhouses with their equipment are an investment of about $55,000."

"You say scattered over the county. How much territory does it cover?"

"This is rather a small county, but my schools that I am forced to visit cover a territory of a hundred square miles, and they are on many kinds of roads. It is quite a proposition to supervise the work of sixty-five teachers in forty-six schools, to say nothing of the office work and the inspection that is necessary for repairs and new buildings."

I was silent for a moment, thinking of the probable salary that would be paid a manager to take charge of a business with $55,000 in the plant, spending $24,000 a year running expenses and covering a territory of a hundred square miles. I smiled and asked quietly:

"What salary does this county allow you for your work as county superintendent?"

"FIVE HUNDRED AND TEN DOLLARS."

"Do the county and state allow you an adequate expense account?" He pulled a pocket notebook from his desk and smiled rather bitterly as he said:

"They do not even pay for the stamps or stationery in my office work. Let me run over this for a moment and show you how it goes. I must keep a horse and buggy or I cannot get about. As this county has never taken over the turnpikes I must pay my own toll. If I am far from home in winter time I must stay all night at some hotel. All this makes my expenses for the past year $230, leaving me at the end of the year $280. That's LESS THAN A DOLLAR A DAY FOR ABSOLUTE WORKING TIME."

"What is the highest salary paid county superintendents in the state?"

"Fifteen hundred, and they are few and far between. There are lots of them on the $400 and $600 basis, and it simply means that the fellow has to do life insurance, farm a little, take a place in a store, make a living in some way and then use what time he can spare for the schools."

IT SIMPLY MEANS THAT OUR RURAL SCHOOLS ARE NOT MAINTAINED AT ALL. THEY ARE MOST COMMONLY MISMANAGED.

Education for the mass of the people is an investment and a business proposition. With a carefully educated population a state or a community can move forward in a desert, anywhere you place them. With an illiterate population the finest country on the globe cannot force them to make good. Brains, trained brains, is the insistent call of the twentieth century. Does Kentucky hear that call? Business and prosperity follow brains; lawlessness and poverty follow illiteracy. Kentucky will be out of step with the onward sweep of the hurrying twentieth century so long as she allows thirteen children out of every hundred to grow into manhood and womanhood robbed of the divine right of being able at least to read and to write.

In order that Kentucky may occupy a place in the forefront in the matter of education, a movement has been inaugurated for the improvement of county schools.

Indifference due to a failure to appreciate the real value of education is one of the very serious obstacles which have confronted every movement toward a higher standard of educational work. In the last few years greater interest has been exhibited generally over the state, indicating a decided manner that our people were shaking off the lethargy of the past and were aspiring to place the state on a sound, progressive educational basis.

Every citizen must realize the awakening, and all should now unite in a continuous, earnest effort to atone for neglect of the past. It would be a useless task, in view of this growing appreciation of the importance and value of education, to make any argument as to the need of better schools.

AS BAD AS THAT?

Are Kentuckians Willing to Be "Tail Eanders?"

FINE CATTLE AND CHILDREN.

One Man to Care For Seven Jersey Heifers and One Teacher For Thirty-six, Sixty and Even a Hundred Pupils.

I had known for a long time that Kentucky's standing in matters educational was very low. I had known that she was in the grip of illiteracy, with all its attendant evils, but I had hardly expected to find such a large number of her rural population willing simply "to let things go." One day while chatting with a member of a county board of education in a rich county he happened to say:

"I tell you, I've been interested in education, mightily interested, for a long time. I've been on this board for mighty high ten years."

"I am delighted to hear you say that you are interested," I hastened to reply, "for you know Kentucky stands thirty-ninth in the list of the states when it comes to education. That's not very far from the end of the list. We need men like you to help us keep things moving."

The old gentleman stroked his grizzled beard thoughtfully, and I felt certain that I had made a vivid impression. A smile, a very small smile, wrinkled the corners of his eyes as he said quietly:

"I reckon you forgot one thing in this whole business—somebody's got to be 'tail eanders,' ain't they?"

I had a glimpse of rural Kentucky's attitude toward education.

Cattle and Children.

I was tired and discouraged after days of school inspection in Jefferson county, so I had decided to take a day off and visit the State Fair and see the sights.

"Blue ribbon?" I asked the man wearing a broad smile as he came down the main roadway.

"You bet!" he exclaimed. He caught sight of my camera and continued, "Don't you want to take a snapshot of my heifer?"

As he turned the splendid young animal into position for a photograph I had a chance to look her over carefully. I was certain she was of royal blood, for her horns looked like polished ebony, and her toe nails had been maintained that morning. When she was led to the barn near by I knew she was a royal princess, for the stable-boy was waiting to throw her open cloak over her and lead her to her stall.

"How many heifers have you here?" I asked the stable boy when he had finished bedding her down.

"I have my hands full this time," he exclaimed. "I have seven to take care of. That's about the limit when you are doing the State Fair, all right."

I left the barn and went out into the roadway to think. I recalled vividly a school visited only the day before where a young man in Jefferson county was striving to handle thirty-six boys and girls in all eight grades and another school where a tired woman was worried with sixty-five. I have seen 300 in one room!

The roadway was crowded with splendid, healthy boys and girls, brown with the kisses of a summer sun. They were laughing and chattering, full to overflowing with the zest of living. Watching them as they passed, I thought:

"Goodness! What is the matter with our old commonwealth when the backmen all know that it takes one man to handle seven Jersey heifers at a state fair and they do not know that one teacher cannot possibly handle from thirty to thirty-six young animals and have to take prizes in the county fair?"

Hard on Jurors

In the trial of McNamara, accused of conspiracy to blow up the Los Angeles Times building, there is every prospect that the jurors will be kept confined together for many months before the case is concluded. Already tentative jurors have been kept away from their business and homes for two more weeks. How many can afford to give up their employment or business to serve as a juror? The pay of a juror is at most, $2 a day and expenses. Suppose a man with a family, who is drawing a salary of $25 a week is selected on the McNamara jury. He can not continue to draw pay for the employment in which he was engaged prior to his selection as a member of the jury. How is his family to live while the case is being tried? Is the state to punish a man who has done no wrong, by keeping him a prisoner for months, while his wife and family go hungry? Yet the trial by jury must be upheld. So the country at large is confronting an odd injustice in our laws to meet which some provision must be made.

Final pity finds no place in the charter. It is uncommon thing for a son to turn his father, when too old for work, out of doors and to leave him to perish in the cold. The superstition that the souls of the dead can, if they will, haunt the living drives their hardened natures to gain by the exercise of cruelty the promise of the dying that they will not return to earth. As death approaches the dying person is asked, "will you come back or will you not?" if he replies that he will then pull a leather bag over his head and smother him, if he says he will not he is allowed to die in peace.

Democratic newspaper devoted to the interest of the City of Columbia and the people Adair and adjacent counties.

WED. NOV., 8, 1911.

HON. JAS. GARNETT.

He Carries Adair County by About 350 Majority, and His Friends are Jubilant.

THE ELECTION QUIET THROUGHOUT COUNTY.

The Democrats of Adair county are very enthusiastic over the election of Mr. James Garnett, of this place, to the office of Attorney General of the State. At this time the exact majority of the Democratic ticket in the State is not known, but last night at 11 o'clock The Louisville Post conceded the election of the entire ticket by between thirty and forty thousand.

The Democrats, and personal friends identified with the Republican party stood valiantly by Mr. Garnett in his home county, and Adair gave him a majority of about 350. The Republican State ticket carried in the county about 90 votes.

Mr. Garnett is receiving congratulations from friends throughout the State, and a happy feeling prevails with his home people.

Next week we will publish the full vote of Adair county by precincts.

Mr. Garnett, in referring to the victory said: "I am very grateful to my friends, both Democrats and Republicans, who have so loyally supported me, and I hope that I will discharge the duties of the office so that they will never have cause to regret the effort they made in my behalf."

The large audience that greeted Hon. James Garnett last Monday afternoon, evidenced the popularity of the gentleman in his home county. The court auditorium was filled to its utmost capacity, and an observer of faces could plainly see that every man in the audience was interested. Mr. Garnett first spoke on questions touching the national government, followed by the discussion of State issues. His arguments were clear and forceful, and we have not a doubt but the speech had a telling effect. He closed by thanking the people, both Democrats and Republicans, for proffered support, assuring them that there was not a doubt as to his election. During the course of the speech, Mr. Garnett was frequently applauded.

Back in the days when free silver was an issue in this country, a number of Democrats refused to follow Mr. Bryan, and identified themselves with the Republican party. It was on that one issue alone that they were lost to the Democratic party. Now that the silver question has long since been dead, and those who left the party are Democrats by inheritance, they should come back to their own. It is hard to make a Republican out of a born Democrat.

Hon. M. Rey Yarberry spoke last Monday in the court-house with much earnestness. The speech was full of flowers, criticisms and promises. It was a worthy effort from one who knows how to tickle the fancy, and fire his partisan associates, but the blaze failed to prove destructive.

In the municipal election the Citizens ticket won easily. The next board will be composed of the following gentlemen: W. R. Myers, John Lee Walker, Charly Sandusky, Bruce Montgomery, Marvin Young. They are all enterprising men, and there is no doubt but they will watch the interests of the town.

Mr. Walter S. Sinclair, who was the Republican candidate to represent Adair and Cumberland, was elected without opposition. He received a very complimentary vote in the two counties.

Redistricting the State has been ordered and the Legislature will doubtless fill the bill.

Extending the County Unit Law is our responsibility.

A Beautiful Home.

Mr. J. O. Russell's bungalow was completed last week, and beyond question, it is a very attractive home. Mr. Russell spared neither means nor time in arranging the building to his liking. All the rooms are hardwood finish, requiring the skill of four finished workmen a month or six weeks to complete the inside work. It is certainly a model home with every convenience, and a great addition to Jamestown street, and if Mr. Russell and his good wife have not a domicile to suit them to perfection, 'tis not because every energy was not brought to bear to bring about that result.

A mysterious shooting occurred at Cane Valley, this county, last Sunday night. Vester Murrell and his son have sleeping apartments over Bob Wilson's store. early in the night the father and son were sitting together, playing checkers. A party is suspected, but there is no proof as to who the guilty party is, as we are informed.

Very Serious

It is a very serious matter to ask for one medicine and have the wrong one given you. For this reason we urge you in buying to be careful to get the genuine—

THE FORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT Liver Medicine

The reputation of this old, reliable medicine for constipation, indigestion and liver trouble, is firmly established. It does not irritate the bowels. It is better than other medicines. It is the favorite medicine of the people, with a larger sale than any other combined.

Born to the wife of Rufus

FREE FOR STOMACH AND BOWELS

We are in receipt of letters from Mrs. Eva Gaskins, 304 Madison St., Topeka, Kan., and Mr. P. H. Gavelas, Wagoner, Okla., as well as many others, telling about the wonderful results they have secured in the cure of their stomach and liver troubles by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

This remedy, as all readers doubtless know, has been before the public for a generation and is now being more extensively used than any other remedy for stomach, liver and bowel complaints. According to reliable testimony, it seems to be a very quick and lasting cure for constipation, indigestion and dyspepsia, liver trouble, biliousness, headaches, sour stomach, gas on the stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar disorders. It is a liquid with tonic effect, and so mild and gentle in action that a child as well as a grown person can take it, in fact, it has no equal for children, women and old people.

It arouses the flow of gastric juice, and by a peculiar action trains the stomach and bowel muscles to again do their work naturally, and in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with. A free sample bottle can be had for trial by sending your address to the doctor, for in this way Mrs. Gaskins, Mr. Gavelas and many others first learned of the cure. Later, when satisfied it is the remedy you need, do as others are doing and buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle.

THE FINEST DAIRY

How It Compares With Nearest Schoolhouse.

DAIRY COW VERSUS CHILD.

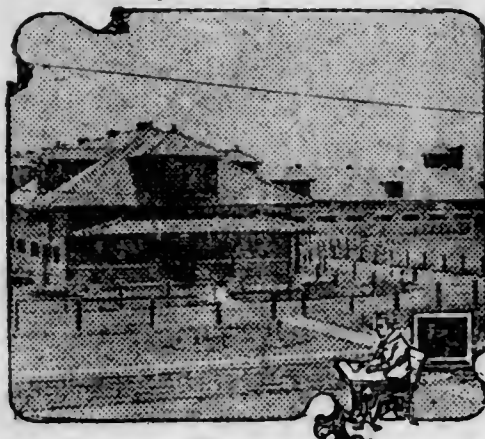

Great Contrast Between the Care and Thought Bestowed Upon Each Near Lexington—Palace For Jerseys, School "Out at the Elbow."

I had not had time to get my luggage together and draw a long breath after leaving the train at Lexington before I was asked:

"Ever been out to Haggin's?" "No," I answered, rather breathlessly and dazed. Then I gathered myself together and answered at a venture. "Oh, you mean the place outside of Lexington where Henry Clay was born, don't you?"

"Heavens, no! It's the biggest and finest thing in the way of a dairy farm in the world. You know it's owned by Mr. Haggin of New York city."

I went out to the great dairy farm on the trolley car—went past Lexington

FOR THE JERSEY COWS.

ton's beautiful new Country club and splendid residences, surrounded by magnificent old forest trees.

Too much cannot be said or written about this wonderful dairy farm of Mr. Haggin's. The creamery, where the milk is cooled, bottled and double sealed for delivery in Lexington, is an artistic building of rough stone. The huge dairy barn is of concrete, brick and tiling, which gives it the appearance of some splendid county institution. Men in immaculate white uniforms were moving about the barn getting ready to milk the 425 registered Jersey cows that would soon be brought in from the hundreds of acres of blue grass, over which they roam. Glancing at the doors and windows, I saw that they were covered with screening to keep out the flies, while water pipes and hose were everywhere to insure absolute cleanliness. I was very much impressed with the beauty, comfort and magnitude of everything I saw, so as I left the barn I asked:

"Where do you get this tremendous supply of water? I saw hose and piping everywhere and a huge tower by the creamery."

"We have a complete pumping plant across country on the far edge of the farm at Russell's cave."

I drove to Russell's cave and found a perfect pumping outfit, even to a double filter that the water might be as pure as it was possible to make it. Suddenly I remembered that I had not come to Lexington to admire the beauty of the wide fields, the grand old homes of Mr. Haggin's great dairy farm, but to look carefully at the schoolhouses. I turned to the man in charge of the engines and pumps and asked the distance to the nearest schoolhouse. It was not an eighth of a mile away from the pumping station and was a decided contrast architecturally. Although I had seen walks, concrete walks, in every direction about the Haggin barn, there was no semblance of a walk from the front gate to the badly patched wooden steps that were intended to lead the children along the primrose path of knowledge. Everything was "out at the elbow."

The contrast between the care and thought bestowed upon a dairy cow and a child was here sharp and distinct. The dairyman could see and figure the direct and immediate return in hard dollars and cents when his cows are favorably treated, but he could not or would not try to see into the future of the children and measure the return from an investment in

TYPEWRITERS IN CHINA.

They Are Used There, but Not For the Native Language.

Typewriters are now made for use in nearly a hundred different languages, and they are sold all over the world, but there is still one great nation which, for a very simple reason, has no typewriters that write its tongue. That nation is China.

The English alphabet has twenty-six letters, the Russian thirty-six. The typewriter produced for the Russian market is the largest made, but no typewriter could be made that would begin to be big enough for the Chinese language, which has no alphabet, but is represented by sign characters, of which there are about 50,000. Of the great number of words found in the English language only a small proportion are used for the ordinary purposes of speech, and the same would be true as to the characters used in the Chinese language, but the number of Chinese characters commonly employed is still far greater than could be put on any typewriter. So this nation of 400,000,000 people has no typewriter in its own tongue.

But that doesn't mean that no typewriters are sold in China. More and more Chinese are learning other languages besides their own, and Chinese merchants and resident foreign merchants use typewriters, and they are used in legations and in consular offices and in banks and shipping offices and colleges and by missionaries, by various people. Altogether there are sold in China a good many typewriters.—Washington Post.

AN ANCIENT LEGEND.

Creation of the Cocoonut, the Wakwak and the Palm Tree.

According to the opinion of the old historians and the commentators of the Koran, God created from the remainder of the clay of which Adam was made the kullseer, or cocoon tree, which is found in abundance in the Indian Islands. It produces a nut which is brought to Anatolia and Roomili. The interior and oily part is nourishing and fortifying food. The shell is worked into spoons and cups of the size of a man's head. It is a round black nut on which all the parts of a man's head may be seen—mouth, nose, eyebrows, eyes, hair and whiskers—before it was formed from Adam's clay. A wonderful sight!

From the same clay God created also the wakwak, found in India, the fruit of which resembles a man's head, which, shaken by the wind, emits the sound of wakwak.

Finally was created also the palm tree from the remainder of Adam's clay at Kufa, near the water Tinnor. This is said to be the reason why the palm trees of Kufa, Medain and Ommann are straight and upright, like the stature of a man. If you cut its branches it does not only no harm to it, but grows even more, like the hair and beard of men, but if you cut off the head of the palm tree it gives a reddish juice like blood, and the tree perishes like a man whose head is cut off.—Ervia Effendi, "Travels."

Blunders by Novelists.

Novelists, even of eminence, are prone to make blunders. Sir Walter Besant in "For Faith and Freedom" wrote after the Eykins had settled in Providence, "Barnaby soon grew tired of this quiet life and went on board a steamer bound for England, promising that we should hear from him." This was in 1866 or 1867, and the first steamer from America to this country did not reach Liverpool till July, 1819. Wilkie Collins also made numerous amazing blunders. In "The Duel in Herne Wood" he makes the story open with the receipt of a telegram, and the period is 1817, when twenty years had to elapse before the first telegraphic wire was laid. Three of the characters also talk of "taking the express train to London" in defiance of the fact that the first railway to London was not opened till 1825.

Two Seats in the Aisle.

On a visit of John W. Gates to New York shortly before his last trip abroad he was discussing Wall street speculation and how dull it was with a friend who sometimes takes a flier in the market himself.

"Let me see," said the friend: "it was five years ago that a Stock Exchange seat brought $97,000. Now one can be got for $75,000."

"Seventy-five thousand dollars!" shouted Gates. "If a man went down to the exchange with $75,000 real money he could get two seats on the middle aisle."—New York Sun.

The Jenny Lind Rock.

The Ohio river claims among its treasures the Jenny Lind rock. The singer was a passenger on a steamer which struck on a sand bar near the rock, and while waiting for the boat to be floated Miss Lind had become row her out to the rock, where she stood alone and sang a song.

Of Course.

In the bankruptcy court I once heard a witness asked the amount of his gross income. "Me gross income, is it? Sure an' I'd have to know that I have no gross income. I'm a fisherman, an' me income is all net," was the astonishing reply.—Green Bag.

A Queer Customer.

"Mandy," said the village tailor to his wife, "I'm going to give Sam Billings a suit of clothes for a pig."

"My goodness, papa!" exclaimed his little daughter. "What does a pig want with a suit of clothes?"—New York Times.

DIVORCE IN ANCIENT ROME.

One Woman Had Eight Husbands in Five Years.

"We are assured by Seneca," says the historian Inge, "that there were women in ancient Rome who counted their ages not by their years, but by the husbands they had had. Juvenal tells of one woman who had married eight husbands in five years. Divorce was granted on the slightest pretext. Many separated merely from love of change, disdaining to give any reason, like Aemilius Paulus, who told his friends that 'he knew best where his shoes pinched him.'"

"Rich wives were not much sought after by wise men. Their complete emancipation made them difficult to manage. Accordingly, since both rich and poor wives were objectionable, the large majority of men never married at all. In most cases a Roman bridegroom knew practically nothing of his wife."

Marriage in the Roman world meant a transition from rigid seclusion to almost unbounded liberty. She appeared as a matter of course at her husband's table whether he had company or not. She could go where she liked, either to the temples of Isis and Serapis or to the circus and amphitheater. She had her own troops of slaves, over whom she ruled without interference."

THEY ATE LEATHER.

The Way Morgan's Pirates Prepared Their Tough Food.

The infamous Captain Morgan and his piratical crew were sometimes in tight places at Panama and on one occasion were reduced to eating their leather bags.

"Some persons," says one of the company (Exquemelin, whose narrative is reproduced in "The Buccaneers in the West Indies"), "who never were out of their mothers' kitchens may ask how these pirates could eat, swallow and digest these pieces of leather, so hard and dry, unto whom I only answer that could they once experience what hunger—or, rather, famine—is they would certainly find the manner by their own necessity, as the pirates did."

"For these first took the leather and sliced it in pieces. Then they beat it between two stones and rubbed it often dipping it in the water of the river to render it by these means supple and tender. Lastly they scraped off the hair and roasted or broiled it upon the fire. And, being thus cooked, they cut it into small morsels and ate it, helping it down with frequent gulps of water, which by good fortune they had right at hand."

Coquelin Made the Audience Wait.

The architect Binet was a friend of the elder Coquelin. He delighted to speak of a performance of "Cyrano de Bergerac" in which he went to praise the genial actor in his dressing room between acts.

"I admire you above all," he said to the actor, "in the couplets of the 'Cadets of Gascony.'"

At that moment word came to Coquelin that the curtain was rising for the next act.

"Wait, wait!" exclaimed Coquelin.

"Leave me here alone with Binet."

"My friend," he said to the architect, "it is with pleasure that I am now going to repeat the passage which has pleased you. For me your approbation is worth more than the plaudits of the whole house."

And while the audience waited he gave anew for Binet alone the "Cadets of Gascony."—Cri de Paris.

A Famous Walking Match.

Thomas Bailey Aldrich was one of the characters made notable in a celebrated walking match which was got up by Dickens during his second visit to America. The match was a stretch of about six miles over the Boston milldam toward Newton Center. In the articles of agreement the signatures were stated to be:

The Boston Bantam.....J. R. Osgood
Massachusetts Jimmy.....James T. Fields
The Gadshill Gasper.....Charles Dickens
At the dinner given by the contestants at the Parker House, in Boston, after the fatigues of the match were over there were present besides the above:

Hyperion.....H. W. Longfellow
Hoses Piglow.....J. R. Lowell
The Autocrat.....O. W. Holmes
The Bad Boy.....T. B. Aldrich

Remembered the Accent.

"Queen Mary," said the teacher to the class in the history lesson, "loved France so much that she declared 'Calais' would be found written across her heart after she was dead."

Pausing a moment, the teacher looked at a boy steadily.

"Jimmy Smith," she said, "you were not listening."

"Oh, yes, I was," Jimmy replied.

"Well, what did Queen Mary say would be found written across her heart?"

"Kelly," was little Jimmy's triumphant reply.—Exchange.

Economizing.

"My dear, we simply have got to economize."

"Mercy sakes! Haven't I been economizing! Instead of letting Willie have money for car fare I'm sending him in the automobile with his dancing class."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Severe Test.

"He—Yes, darling, when I am with you I feel inspired—as if I could do some perfect thing. She—Maybe you could order a luncheon that would like without consulting me."

"Good luck" results from not knowing how to succeed.

JAPANESE DENTISTS.

They Use Natural Weapons in Assaulting Their Victims.

Japanese native dentists conduct their business in a manner which would undoubtedly cause any European practitioner to open his eyes in amazement. The victim is seated on the ground. The dentist bends over him and forces his left hand between the patient's jaws in such a manner that the mouth cannot possibly be closed. Then he grasps the doomed tooth between the thumb and forefinger of the right hand and with one deft wrench removes it and throws it upon the ground.

So great is the skill of these native dentists that many of them are able to remove six or seven teeth per minute. Indeed, their skill is hardly to be wondered at when one considers the course of preparatory training they are obliged to undergo.

A student of dentistry in Japan is a stout plank, and this is fixed firmly to the ground. In the holes are driven wooden pegs, and the would be dentist has to extract them with his fingers without dislodging the board. This process is repeated with a board of pine wood and finally with one of oak, and it is only when he has succeeded in extracting the pegs from the oak plank that the Japanese considers himself qualified to practice upon his fellow men.—Pearson's Weekly.

MAKING A LAWYER.

It Took Patrick Henry Six Weeks to Prepare For the Bar.

Patrick Henry when he was a young married man of twenty-three was a complete failure. He had tried clerking, farming and keeping a country store, all with equally negative or disastrous results.

"Best of all," he said cheerfully to himself, "I will become a lawyer."

Six weeks he allowed himself as a matter of formality to prepare for the bar. During this time he read one book, "Coke Upon Littleton," supplemented by an equally strenuous perusal of the "Digest of the Virginia Acts."

His examiners, Wythe, Pendleton, Peyton Randolph and John Randolph, hardly knew whether to be more amazed at his ignorance of law or his profound knowledge of history. After no little deliberation he received his license.

"Mr. Henry," John Randolph exclaimed enthusiastically after his examination of the young neophyte, "if your industry be only half equal to your genius I augur that you will do well and become an ornament and an honor to your profession."—Green Bag.

Queen Bess' Wardrobe.

Royal annals have never recorded a more varied and extensive wardrobe than that which belonged to the "virgin queen." Even at the age of sixty-eight, when she might be supposed to have outlived her youthful vanity, she possessed 99 complete official costumes, 102 French gowns, 100 robes with trains and 67 without, 126 antique dresses, 136 bodices, 125 tunics, not to mention such trifles as 96 mantles, 85 dressing gowns and 27 fans. It is possible that she had an ugly foot, for she possessed only nine pairs of shoes, which, considering her extravagances in other articles of apparel, must have some meaning. At her death 3,000 articles were found duly catalogued in her wardrobe which had adorned her proud person.

Winter and Summer Sun.

The sun is nearer to the earth in winter than it is in summer. It is not distance that determines the amount of heat that we get from the sun, but the length of time the sun is above the horizon and the direction in which his rays strike us. In summer, although much farther from us, the sun is daily above the horizon much longer than when he is nearest, at the winter solstice, and this continued action produces the summer heat. In addition to this is to be reckoned the fact that in summer the force of the sun's rays is more perpendicular to the earth's surface, while in the winter they are oblique. In the case of the perpendicular ray the heat stays, while in that of the oblique ray it "glances off," so to speak.

"Oh, Had I the Wings of a Dove."

The daily papers reported the other day a visit of the primrose to a convict prison. The prison has been built by convict labor. Convict hands have done the carving. A convict played the organ, and it looks as if a convict selected the hymns. One of them, "Oh, Had I the Wings of a Dove," the convicts are said to have sung with great heartiness. It is easy to believe.—London Truth.

Importance Recognized.

"Do you think that man fully appreciates the importance of the office to which we have elected him?" said one constituent.

"I guess he does," replied the other. "The first thing he did was to say it ought to command a larger salary."—Washington Star.

Bean Ballots.

Greeks and Romans of the ancient world invariably used white and black beans for voting at trials; the white bean signifying acquittal and the black one conviction.

Particular Speech.

"My dear, do you love me still?" "I still love you, and I suppose I would love you still if I ever saw you hat way."—Baltimore American.

History is indeed little more than the register of the crimes, follies and misfortunes of mankind.—Gibbon.

The Very worst

Clement J. Driscoll, at a dinner in New York, told a number of amusing stories about his strenuous life as commissioner of weight and measures last year.

"A friend of mine," said Mr. Driscoll, "noticed one morning that his grocers looked very sad. What's the matter, old man? my friend asked jokingly. The weights and measure man hasn't been dropping in on you I hope?"

"Yes, he has," snapped the grocer. "But you don't really mean to say, exclaimed my friend, that he caught you giving fifteen ounces to the pound?"

"Worse than that!" groaned the grocer. "I've been giving seventeen."

A Maysville man killed himself when his wife presented him with second set of twins. He was out of job and took the coward's course. He did not know that babies are an asset instead of a liability, if one wants to dispose of the little ones. Hundreds of childless women are clamoring for babies to be adopted and it is stated that that the demand is much grater than than supply.
